

TO OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY HERE SUNDAY

PROGRAM ANNOUNCED WEDNESDAY BY COMMITTEE IN CHARGE OF EVENT

JUDGE HUGHES TO BE SPEAKER

Program At Cemetery To Be Held At Monument, Purple Robed Choir and Band To Take Part

Memorial day will be properly observed in Greencastle Sunday with all veteran organizations and their auxiliaries cooperating in arranging for the observance.

Arrangements are under way to decorate the graves of all soldiers, sailors and marines with flags and flowers, and to hold an appropriate program at Forest Hill cemetery.

Flowers are scarce this spring and every one that can give flowers are requested to bring them to the fire department by 9 o'clock where the ladies are going to make them into bouquets. If unable to bring them phone 595 and the Boy Scouts will be glad to call for them. The veterans have more graves to decorate every year and will need every flower that they can get. Citizens have responded nobly in the past and it is hoped no hero's grave will be missed this year.

Every citizen and every ex-service man and woman should join in the observance of Memorial day and participate in appropriate exercises. The republic is secure so long as we continue to honor the memory of its defenders.

Sixty-three years ago, the 30th day of May was set aside as a day of national memorial by the order of Gen. John A. Logan, then commander in chief of the Grand Army of the Republic. It should be observed by our entire citizenship as a day of pride and gratitude to her defenders, living and dead. That day should be rich in the memory of great deeds. Love may be all in its power, and yet how feeble it is to express a tribute befitting the day or appropriate to the deeds which we commemorate.

It is rather for us to be again dedicated to the unfinished work they have so nobly advanced and from our honored dead take increased devotion. It becomes the solemn duty and obligation of every member of our veteran organizations to assist in keeping sacred the day of national memorial and pay tribute to all who served in the wars of our republic.

Let us kindle anew the fires upon the altars of patriotism and keep alive the splendid spirit of loyalty and devotion that has successfully met every crisis in our history.

Every Civil War veteran is requested to arrange to be present on this day and wear his badge of the G. A. R. The Sons of Veterans organization will call at the home of these veterans and provide them with transportation to these services and return them to their homes at the close. Citizens are asked to provide cars for the ladies organizations that will be as follows: The D. A. R., W. R. C., Spanish War Veterans Ladies' Auxiliary, and the American Legion Auxiliary.

The parade will be formed at 1 p. m. by First Lieutenant W. F. Paris, acting as marshal, as follows, on the south side of the square on Washington street.

Band just east of Indiana street, marching on foot.

Firing squad.

World war veterans.

Boy Scouts, marching on foot.

Girl Scouts, marching on foot.

The following will be in automobiles:

Spanish war veterans.

Civil war veterans and Indian war veterans, accompanied by Sons of Veterans, speakers, D. A. R., W. R. C., Spanish war ladies auxiliary, American Legion ladies auxiliary, civic bodies and citizens.

The line of march will be east on Washington street to Locust then south on Locust to cemetery. The parade moves promptly at 1:30 o'clock.

At the cemetery gate the parade will be halted and reformed.

The World war veterans will open ranks and allow the Spanish veterans to march through, they will then open ranks and allow the Civil war veterans to lead the column to the monument, followed by the Spanish war veterans, World war veterans, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, speakers' car and the ladies auxiliaries, civic bodies and citizens.

followed by a program at the speakers' stand as follows:

GOLFERS ASK RELIEF FROM HOG STENCH

FILE PETITION WITH CITY COUNCIL AT REGULAR MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT

CITY CAN DO NOTHING, REPORT

Building Permits Granted At Brief Session Of City Administration In City Hall.

Presentation of a petition by Northwood Golf Course players asking the city for relief from the "horrible and unsanitary stench" coming from a hog feeding lot owned by the city just north of the golf course, was the highlight of the regular city council meeting Tuesday night.

The petition contained four pages of signatures, many of whom were students and University professors.

After a discussion the petition was placed on file until city attorney Glenn H. Lyon can investigate the city's legal position in the matter.

Members of the council as well as the city attorney, during the discussion, expressed the opinion that the city was not responsible for the "horrible stench" as it had leased the land to W. D. James who uses it as a hog fattening lot, feeding city garbage to the animals.

The consensus of opinion was that it was up to the golfers to take legal action against James if he was creating a nuisance.

Permits were granted to R. W. Huffer to build a concrete garage at 510 south College avenue; to Laura Carrington to build a coal shed at Jackson and Seminary streets; to J. C. Knight who sought to expend between $1,500 and $2,000 to remodel his property at 503 Elm street and connect with the city sanitary sewer; to J. E. Dunlavy to re-roof his home at 411 east Walnut street; and to Ralph Etter who asked for permission to install a gasoline pump on the curb at 3 east Franklin street.

Harry Allan, a member of the local Scout committee, appeared before the council and asked permission to reconstruct the Boy Scout cabin, which has been located on the Peck farm south of town, on the city airport land. On a motion by councilman John Cherry permission was granted, the city reserving the right, however, to control the removal of the cabin at any time it desired.

Petitions for lights at Crown on Hanna street and at Daggy and Madison street which have been in the hands of a committee for investigation, were continued after it was learned the committee was not ready to report.

Discussion of sanitary conditions in various sections of the city and allowance of regular claims completed the business of the meeting.

Detective Charles E. Bauer, passing the store as the bandits ran out, received the loads from both barrels of a shotgun at close range.

Scientist Seeks Balloon Record

INTERESTING AERIAL EXPERIMENT IS CONDUCTED IN BAVARIA

PARTENKIRCHEN, BAVARIA, May 27 (UP)—Prof. Auguste Piccard's Balloon was sighted at 5 P. M. today at an altitude of 4,000 meters (13,120 feet) and remaining in a stationary position.

Aeronautic authorities were astonished that Prof. Piccard had not pulled the rip cord which would release the gas in the Balloon bag and cause descent, and they expressed fear that he and his companion Charles Kipfer were dead.

PARIS, May 27 (UP)—Prof. Piccard's balloon, reports reaching here said, was last sighted near Murnau, Bavarian Alps, at an altitude of 15,000 feet, facing a thunderstorm. The hour set for normal consumption of the balloon's oxygen supply had passed.

ZURICH, Switzerland, May 27 (UP)—The Piccard balloon was seen at noon today, 46,000 feet above Lake Constance at Lindau.

AUGSBURG, BAVARIA, GERMANY, May 27 (UP)—An altitude record for free balloons was believed to have been set today by Prof. Auguste Piccard, who, with a companion, rose from the earth just before dawn, seeking to penetrate the upper air to heights uncharted by man.

Unconfirmed reports from an amateur meteorologist near Lake Constance, on the Swiss border, said Piccard's balloon was sighted at 10 a. m., flying at an estimated altitude of 12,000 meters or nearly 7 1/2 miles. The previous balloon record of 10,800 meters (35,424 feet) was set by Professors Berson and Suering in July, 1901.

One report said the fliers had reached the stratosphere—the scientific name for the upper air stratum in the earth's atmospheric insulation—at 7 a. m.

The balloon rose rapidly, reaching an estimated altitude of more than 12,000 feet in 40 minutes. They hoped to go up 50,000 feet, or nearly 10 miles—a record never yet attained by balloons or heavier than air machines.

Hope Fades For Rev. Hootman's Son

SAUTE STE MARIE, Mich., May 27 (UP)—Searchers had practically abandoned all hope today of finding M. C. Hootman and Charles and John Ferguson, all of Lansing, Mich., who are believed to have drowned in Whitefish bay.

The trio has not been seen since May 17 when they set out on a fishing trip. Last week their boat was washed ashore, indicating that they had met with disaster.

Bodies are scarcely ever recovered from Whitefish bay because the water is extremely cold.

Hootman is a son of the Rev. A. M. Hootman, former Greencastle Christian church pastor.

CHANGES LOOM IN DOWNTOWN DISTRICT HERE

SEVERAL STORES TO OCCUPY NEW LOCATIONS ACCORDING TO REPORT

TWO GROCERIES TO MOVE

The Oakley And Kroger Stores Both To Change. Eitel And Star Store Deal Also Pending.

It was reported Wednesday that several changes are pending in the downtown section, which if terminated, will result in quite a difference in the aspect of the business district.

It was said that the Oakley store, now located on Washington street in the block between Vine and Indiana, will be moved to the Hirt room on the south side of the public square now occupied by the Star store. It was understood that the Star store may move into the Eitel Floral Company room, a block east. If this deal is consummated, it was said that the Eitel firm would move just across the street to the room formerly occupied by the Blumenstein concern.

Another big deal arranged Tuesday, it was said, was the leasing of two rooms on the corner of Washington and Indiana to the Kroger grocery, now located just opposite the courthouse on south side of square. It was reported that Kroger officials were here looking over the new site, the corner room and the room which was rented by Marie Zaharakos for a number of years and recently known as The Gohna. It was understood that the floors of these two rooms were to be lowered to the level of the sidewalk and other changes made during the consolidation of these two rooms into one big room for the Kroger company.

It was also announced Wednesday that Ralph Etter, garageman, had purchased the Gardner business room at 3 East Franklin street and would remove his garage there from 9 East Franklin street as soon as the room is vacated by C. W. Tribby. Mr. Tribby did not know Wednesday where he would go from 3 East Franklin street.

It was said she collected a total of $6,284 in insurance upon the deaths of these four: Thomas Meyers, 17 year old nephew; Thomas Summers, her husband; Thomas Lanagan and William Reiman, both peddlers and roomers in her apartment. Their deaths occurred within the last three years.

GARY YOUTH GETS LIGHT PRISON TERM

JURY IMPOSES SENTENCE OF ONE TO TEN YEARS ON VIRGIL KIRKLAND

EXCITEMENT IN COURTROOM

Kirkland Pleased When He Hears Verdict. Attorneys Come To Blows As Case Ends

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27 (UP)—Virgil Kirkland, Gary athlete, should have been sentenced to five to 21 years in the state prison after conviction on a charge of assault and battery with intent to commit criminal attack in connection with the death of Arlene Draves, Attorney General James M. Ogden told the judge and prosecutor in the case by telephone today.

Ogden said the one to 10 years sentence in the state reformatory given Kirkland today in Porter circuit court was an error. Under the charge upon which Kirkland was convicted, statute provides a five to 21 year sentence, Ogden said.

Judge Grant Crumpacker, who pronounced sentence, answered he would investigate the matter.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 27 (UP)—Virgil Kirkland, 20-year-old Gary athlete, was sentenced today of from one to ten years in prison on charges of assault and battery with intent to attack Arlene Draves, whom he said he loved and for whose death he was once sentenced to life imprisonment.

First fights in the courtroom, arrest of a defense attorney on bad check charges, reported threats of gunplay, and other sensational developments marked the end of Kirkland's second trial.

Excitement prevailed for hours after the verdict was returned. Reports that at least two of the jurors had believed they were sentencing Kirkland to die, led to heated demands by prosecutors for a third trial. These protests were dropped upon agreement after arguments that the verdict must stand regardless.

The jury of farmers received the case at 3:25 yesterday. A short time later defense attorney Ronald C. Oldman was arrested on a bad check charge filed in Butler County, Ohio. He was taken to the jail where Kirkland sat, white and trembling, awaiting the verdict.

Judge Grant Crumpacker had outlined six possible verdicts, ranging from acquittal to murder by attack, which in Indiana carries a mandatory death penalty.

At 6:25 last night the jury pronounced Kirkland guilty of one of the minor of the six charges. Although it later was claimed some of the jurors did not know it, this verdict specified the one to 10 year sentence.

Kirkland, under life sentence since the first trial in February, sobbed when he heard the verdict. He smiled later when he realized its significance.

His mother, waiting in another room, rushed to embrace him, then fainted in his arms. Spectators cheered.

Efforts to restore order failed. During the demonstration, John Weaver rushed at defense attorney Oscar B. Thiel, struck and almost knocked him down.

Weaver is the father of Mrs. Bernice Elser, who attended the party which ended in Arlene's death. She testified for the state. Thiel had attacked her testimony, advancing a theory that she might have struck Arlene through jealousy and caused some of the head injuries Kirkland was accused of inflicting.

"You're a liar," shouted Weaver as he charged. Bailiffs overpowered him.

When the demonstration was at its height, bailiff John Hardesty appeared, excited, before the bench.

"The jury was all mixed up," he shouted to Judge Crumpacker above the uproar. He said Hugh H. Morrow and Claude Walters, jurors, had told him they became confused over the charges and thought they were sentencing Kirkland to die.

"It is a travesty on justice," declared Underwood, who said he now would dismiss charges against four other youths indicted with Kirkland.

"On the basis of this, I suppose we should pin medals on the other four," he declared angrily.

AT THE GRANADA
In real life and in reel life, Nancy Carroll is an ex-chorin. In her newest picture, "Laughter," which comes to the Granada Theatre on Thursday for a 2 day run, Miss Carroll is seen as an ex-Follies girl. It was only about five years ago that Miss Carroll actually left Broadway musical shows for good and all, and started her phenomenal ascent to fame in Hollywood.
In 1923, after many performances in amateur shows, she at last got a job as a chorus girl in "The Passing Show of 1923." There were several other "stepping stones" to success on Broadway before she went to the west coast with a road show.
Picked by Paramount as just the type for the title role of "Abie's Irish Rose" in the films, she played this part opposite Charles Rogers and immediately gained the favor of film fans everywhere.

Since then it has been just one success after another for Nancy, who was raised to the rank of star in "Dangerous Paradise" with Richard Arlen. Subsequent pictures are "Sweetie," "The Devil's Holiday,"
"Honey," "Follow Thru" and now—
"Laughter."
"Laughter" deals with the fortunes of a girl who, disappointed by the youth she had set her heart for, marries an unromantic but wealthy old man, only to find that thwarted love is its own retribution.
Fredric March, the young convert from legitimate drama who made such fine appearances in "Sarah and Son" and "Man-laughter," will play the leading featured role opposite Miss Carroll in "Laughter."

BROCKTON, Mass., May 27, (UP)—
The Conrad shoe company of this

Not the business depression, but the recent death of James Finch of New York was responsible.
Finch, a negro, stood seven feet seven inches in height, weighed 670 pounds, and wore size 24 shoes.
The last pair of shoes made for Finch were sport oxfords, measuring 16 inches long, six inches side and

HAWKS AGAIN IN AIR

CROYDON AIRPORT, Eng., May 27 (UP)—Capt. Frank Hawks, American speed pilot off on another fast air journey, had breakfast here after a quick flight from Paris.

Hawks arrived at 9 a. m. from Paris. He ate without particular haste and at 10:15 left for Berlin.

The American flier—who already has started European aviators by his speed exploits—planned to have lunch in Berlin and fly back to Paris for dinner this evening.

The total distance of Hawk's proposed three-legged one-day aerial cruise is 1,350 miles. The legs of the triangle are: Paris to Croydon, 210 miles; Croydon to Berlin, 600 miles; and Berlin to Paris, 540 miles.

LOST:—Jeffersonville High School class 1927 yellow gold ring. Return to Banner Office. 28-1t.

GROWN old and tired of adventuring, Alfred Horn, who had traded on the rivers of Africa before Livingston and Stanley, finds refuge in a flop house at Johannesburg in the Transvaal and earns his living by making and peddling wire kitchen utensils. One day he called at the home of Ethelreda Lewis, famous South African novelist, and she induced him to write the story of his early life. The famous book, "Trader Horn," a best-seller all over the world, was the result of his writing and her editing. In his story, which is appearing serially in this paper for twenty-one days, Trader Horn tells of adventures with savage beasts and wild cannibal tribes. The quaint spelling of Trader Horn and his habit of rambling away from his story to tell of interesting details of his former life add to the charm of the narrative.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Trader Horn," filmed in Africa, is based on the story of his adventures with Ethelreda Lewis, the White Goddess of the Isoga.

The Blind King

The chief's people now began to arrive in large numbers from the island bringing with them ljios (bush-lights) and a good supply of palm wine and in no time fires were lit and there was a full-blown muscle dance in progress, men in line, girls on the other side, one couple would trot out and shake up the sandbank whilst the rest sang.

The chief had skins spread on the sand on which he and I sat and watched the Conjo.

The chief and I turned in at midnight. When we rose the Conjo was still in progress. I told the chief that I wished to reach Eninga lake before sundown as I had business to attend to there.

I had quite a good reception from the Eninga boys and their blind king. Here I also met Nina's father-in-law, who claimed to be doing wonders for the people. He had raised a dead man to life and had also found a charm which if worn around the neck like a necklace would prevent any-(fear none but my own people). He was a fine old man and he and his people were Mpongwe, the same race as the Mpongwe of Gaboon. He shook hands with me in European style and said he was forced to congratulate me on my luck. Why do you call it luck? Why my son, he said in pure Mpongwe, I have known him when I was a boy and I have speared him in the left side in a fatal spot but he went away and cured up. We hunted him high and low as I was then growing wild illots (bananas) and he visited me the next year. Two of my slaves who were near shot him at close range and he turned and trampled them both to pulp but escaped. Although we followed him for two days. He had led a charmed life, he has been hunted by my father and grandfather to whom he was well known and here he lays, this rascal of all Elephants Ojuga.

Blood Brother of the Cannibals

Needless to say I had a great welcome from Sinclair and Gibson, my young assistant. Immediately on arrival I handed over my tin box with charts, state of trade in various places, etc., and the new passages I had found opposite Isogis and Ramb Ingogus towns.

I also told him that on invitation of the Panguis at Lake Azingo, large bodies of their friends, all rubber and ebony cutters were fast settling round the lake so that the trade with the near future could be easily doubled. In fact there was one good sized village had already reached the coast and as this trade would all come to Lake Azingo, we would be badly in need of a small tug or steam launch of small draught, powerful, and built to burn wood. Such a boat had been ordered but had now become a real necessity.

Matam and the Gun

This and other business information I had brought with me was joyfully received by Sinclair who urged

"Mrs. Stanhope, a missionary—a schooner-rigger female."

one being killed by gunshot or by a bullet fired from a gun. He was very friendly with the Eninga king and years before that he and some of his ilk had persuaded the chief to have his eyes put out.

The old king was stone blind and believed he could transport his spirit to any part of the earth. He was always surrounded by numerous clients some of whom were suffering from numerous kinds of ailments. Some of these people were medically attended to by the witch doctor previously mentioned whilst others were supposed to be bewitched.

For small or large payments the king of Eninga agreed to transfer the malady of the patient to the body of the man or woman who had bewitched them. This he believed he could do, as being blind, he could talk to the spirits by day as well as by night. The natives believed him implicitly as he was known to have effected some marvelous cures, which could not be treated by the famous witch doctor.

The Magic Secret

Whilst the Eninga chief was busy chasing up witches, the crafty witch doctor, who was passionately fond of rum which I supplied him liberally, kept incessantly telling me of his marvelous cures and charms. Under the influence of Bacchus he went fast asleep. That gave me a good chance to tell my boy Renchoro to go through his bag as I wanted to look at his stock in trade. This resulted in the discovery of two black lead balls and a few pieces of magnetic iron strong enough to pick up a needle. These I kept.

I had discovered his secret of being shot at without receiving any injury as the black lead or graphite balls split up into him on being rammed home with a steel ramrod and the bigger the charge of powder you put behind the dust the more it pulverized so that fire at a distance of 60 or 70 yards you stood no chance of being hurt.

I told Renchoro to get out a bottle of Old Dom which I used as a pick-me-up occasionally. He then roused the witch doctor and as he asked for a brace I served him with a stiff tot of Dominican. I did not see the Arch Scoundrel again till about sunrise and as the boys made ready for departure he drank rum and Old Dom until we bade him adieu.

He told me he was about to sell his charms to the Mpongus and begged me to advertise him as he knew I had great power with the Bimvoos who stood in great need of enlightenment.

We were soon clear of Eninga and well on our way to Adonnanongo. I told Renchoro all about the black lead trick and he had better go over to the Pangee town and see Matam, the son of the chief, and tell him all about it. And not to forget to tell him that this rascal was visiting today what a great Cuckverrot (talkative idiot) this man has been. He came here to show that he could not be shot by an Mpongwe and ordered his own execution. I tell you no man's medicine or charm can stop a bullet fired by Ajuna-le-limba, a man with the twisted hair. Ajuna is the battle cry of the Mpongwe. Now tell his people who came with him to take this fool away and tell them not to come here with their charms but go elsewhere to people who are as great fools as themselves.
